

The Editors and Editorial Board of International Contributions to Labour Studies are pleased to present an annual supplement to the Cambridge Journal of Economics. Published as a joint venture of the Cambridge Political Economy Society at the University of Notre Dame and Academic Press, International Contributions to Labour Studies has a multi-disciplinary approach and an emphasis on applied analysis. International Contributions to Labour Studies plans to publish economic-historical, industrial relations, legal and sociological papers in any field of labour studies. Empirical, policy and international comparative studies are especially welcome.
